Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 03 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Generally settled and dry, with sunny spells.

Today:
A bright and frosty start for most, but with some low cloud or fog, here or there, gradually clearing through the morning. In the afternoon, patchy cloud with sunny spells will become widespread. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud cover will increase across the region overnight with the chance of an odd shower far south. Feeling chilly with the chance of frost where skies remain clear for longest. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Thursday:
A cloudy, damp day with a band of rain arriving north of the region in the late morning passing southwards through the afternoon. Clearer and drier overnight, although rather chilly. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Lengthy spells of sunshine on both Friday and Saturday before turning cloudy and wet on Sunday. Feeling colder with the risk of frost becoming more widespread.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.